      Discussion ensued, concerns raised included:
      CASA is a good lobby group under their terms, unsure if this works for the U of A
      No real national mobilization
      The national director suggested changes in 2000, changes did not happen. If changes suggested by the national director are not acted on this is not a positive sign.
      CASA is within its rights to reject an external review.
      Concerns about why they would reject such a review
      Were the costs of not doing an external review known (possible pulling out of U of A)
      A number of schools were willing to commit money to pay for the external review.
