Do You Know Who I Am?!!!!

BOG Rep Final Report to Council - May 3, 2004

I flipped through my day planner for the last year, and quickly realized that there was no way I was going to be able to summarize it all. My year as BOG has involved countless hours of meetings, functions, planning and discussions, all on the steepest learning curve l've ever experienced. If you've read my Council reports, and kept an ear to the elections in February, then you know what's happened over the past year. Put that together with seven first-year law classes, law show, volunteer work, debate, Delta Chi, and dutifully patronizing RATT, and you get one of the most amazing years of my life.

I often get asked why I bother with the Students' Union, why I spend an inordinate amount of time devoted to something that I don't get paid for and that sometimes doesn't seem to accomplish much other than to lower GPAs. The reason is simple: we all try to find something that matters to us, something that gives us a spark to make a difference on this campus. Being involved in the SU is no different from those who commit themselves to the Gateway, CJSR, Athletics, student groups or residence. When I accidentally discovered Students' Council three years ago, I found a group of passionate and intelligent students debating issues and trying to make a positive impact on the lives of those they represented. I absolutely loved it. I truly hope that the work we've done over the past year has, in some way, met that goal.

To the outgoing exec:
Mat: From discussing our plans to run for VPA two years ago in the DX house, to sitting clueless at a Strategic Planning Session on our first day on the Board, to strategizing for the tuition meeting a few months later, it's been a pleasure.

J-Lo: If I was successful in getting you to work even slightly less hard, then I'm happy. © Cheers to piggy-backing my VPA to a party.

Jader: Only a hack can claim a consultation forum as a first date. Thanks for colluding with me during last year's elections.

Tyler: The only person with whom l've argued over dating advice on a computing science newsgroup. That's a futile exercise in more ways that I can list. I'm glad I was able to provide fodder for your list of quotes this year.

Chris: We joined fraternities, the UADS and the SU in the same year, and called our parents at the same time on election night. Here's to Thailand, HC7, and 11-year undergraduate degrees.

When I started on Council as a proxy, President Samuel mentioned in his opening speech that some of us might one day find ourselves running for exec positions. I remember looking at the exec in admiration and thinking that I could never do something like that. Funny how things work out. The key to success is surrounding yourself with the right people, and my chance to serve as BOG would have been made a hell of a lot harder without the help of two people: Mustafa Hirji and DesignMonkey, my poster designer. Thank you both.

Working in an organization like the Students' Union, it's easy to get frustrated if we can't change the world. We try to make a difference on things like tuition. We try to provide quality services. We argue about things like Multi-year Tuition and the structure of the SU. But when I meet past SU execs or politicians, and I ask them about their experiences at University, they don't remember what motions passed or failed. They remember the people they worked with, the funny stories, and memorable events they took part in. I hope that those of you who are leaving will take away some fond memories. With all the work we do, it's important to have some fun and to keep it all in perspective. This year's Council, and people involved in the SU, has been the tightest group l've ever had the pleasure of being a part of. I've made some great friends and I hope to cross paths with you again.

My year had its share of great and difficult times, both personally and professionally. I wouldn't give up any of it. To the incoming Council and Exec: find what drives you, and enjoy every second of your experience. It will only be as good as you make it. To those finishing: it's been an honour to represent undergraduate students and to serve with all of you. I wish you all the best.

Looking ahead to the upcoming year,

Roman Kotovych
Undergraduate Board of Governors Representative 2003-2004 (BOGG)
