Re: Board of Governors Representative Report #15

Dear Council,

I hope everyone had a good reading week. This was definitely a well-deserved reading week for everyone here so I hope everyone was able to take some time off to rejuvenate and reinvigorate themselves over this time.

These past two weeks I have had more of a focus on discussing risks to the SU and also strategizing on outreach for the University Strategic Planning Process. I would encourage all councillors when talking with members of their faculty to share the link for the strategic planning process and encourage their participation in the process.

Strategic Planning Process Engagement Opportunities

I also would like to once again reiterate the importance of participating in the strategic planning process for the ongoing University Strategic Plan. I have also attached questions below to help guide you in answering these questions:

1. When you think about the University of Alberta and what it does particularly well, What achievement or practice makes you the most proud?
2. Conversely where does the university most need to improve?
3. What do you think the main economic and socio-political changes that will be affecting higher education and society and the environment over the next ten to fifteen years?

4. What is the Greatest thing you could imagine the university accomplishing over the next 20 years?
5. How does the University of Alberta directly meet the needs of their people and the world that it serves?
  - a) What measures (including investments in people, resources and programs) could the university take to improve our university? How would taking these measures translate into a better university, a better Alberta, and stronger
